This is the plant shop that I ALWAYS make sure I go to when I visit London. The place has a surprising amount of house plants, I got my string of hearts here. Parking can be tough so be careful—there is a small parking lot beside the shop and I find this shop easy to miss if you've never been. Once you get there, you'll usually see a cute sidewalk chalkboard with a sweet planty message that is sure to delight you.

Pet Plant is a cute floral shop that also has a great selection of house plants. Last time I went they had a large variety of plants. The range of house plants they had was great, and I like a good selection of both easy to find and not as easy to find.

If you're looking for plants on a budget, I would say go shopping at Pet Plants solution. They have very reasonable prices and very healthy plants. They often have sales during the holiday too. When you walk side, you'll notice quite the extensive selection of houseplants AND outdoor plants... and everything else you would want.
